Ruling Jars Juvenile Court Concept

NEW YORK (AP) — Legal authorities generally expressed satisfaction today with the Supreme Court's extension of constitutional protections to juveniles. Dissenters were outspoken, however, one calling it "a dreadful blow to the concept of juvenile court."

Many judges across the nation said in an Associated Press survey that the ruling would entail no change in their procedures and that their courts were already practicing the principles laid down by the high court Monday.

But Superior Court Judge Lloyd Shorett of Seattle, Wash., said, "I think it is a dreadful blow to the concept of juvenile court. It is a long step in the wrong direction. It means the entire concept of attempted reformation by juvenile courts in effect since 1900 will go out the window."

In its 8 to 1 decision, the Supreme Court held that juveniles, like adults, are entitled to the following Bill of Rights safeguards:

1. Notice of the charges placed against them.

2. The right to have an attorney's assistance.

3. The right to confront and cross-examine complainants and other witnesses.

4. Protection against self-incrimination, including the privilege of remaining silent.

5. The right to a transcript of the proceedings.

6. The right to have the case reviewed in higher courts.

Shorett was most unhappy over point 2—the right to attorney's advice.

"Many more juveniles facing the court will have lawyers. They will be advised to say nothing and many will be turned loose for lack of other evidence," he said.

An opposite view was taken by John Pemberton, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union. In a statement issued here, he said the decision

"may well be the most important in the present term of the Supreme Court."

It is important, he explained, "because the law must be seen to practice what it preaches if it is to create incentives in juveniles to rehabilitate themselves."

Another who applauded the decision was Judge Orin W. Ketcham in Washington, D.C.

He predicted one long-range effect would be to create greater sympathy in legislatures for juvenile courts and for financing related facilities such as diagnostic centers.

"I am very pleased they are involved," he said. "Lawyers are more articulate than social workers with legislatures," he added in explanation of his prediction of betterment.

A dissenter was Judge Benjamin Schwartz of Cincinnati who said, "The decision is going to radically change the juvenile court's procedure. It turns the juvenile court, a court of equity, into a criminal court."

He said, "We won't be able to keep youngsters under detention and they will have the same constitutional rights as adults."

Romney Says U.S. Should Increase Canadian Ties

MONTREAL (AP) — Gov. George Romney of Michigan said Monday the United States should pay more attention to Canada, and he hailed Canada's "great contribution" to world peace.

Romney, leading a Michigan group visiting Expo 67, said Canada's role as one of three members of the International Control Commission could be "a far better catalyst for peace in Vietnam than divisions of Canadian troops could ever be."

The governor was booed by an uncommitted girl when he said that "just as the United States and Canada were at work in the Congo, the Middle East and Cyprus, Americans should not forget that both are at work today in Vietnam."

The Control Commission, established to supervise the 1954 Geneva accords that ended the French-Indochina War, includes representatives from Canada, Poland and India.

Romney, considered a contender for the Republican nomination for president next year, said, "For too long Americans have tended to take Canada and Canadians for granted." He said, "Canada is not too close, geographically and culturally, for us to see her clearly as the great and growing nation she is."

Lake States Agree To Chicago Diversion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven states told the Supreme Court Monday they have agreed to abide by a special master's finding on diversion of water from Lake Michigan.

They joined with the Justice Department in recommending that the high court formally declare the dispute finished.

"All parties agree that the court should now adopt and confirm the special master's findings of fact," said the joint motion signed by U.S. Solicitor Gen. Thurgood Marshall and the attorneys general of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, New York and Illinois.

They appeared to bring to an end litigation begun in 1958 when Wisconsin, Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan and New York filed suit in the court to prevent Illinois from diverting lake water.

Kelley Says Fair
Michigan Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley said the agreement marked an historic event and termed it fair for all states.

He said Michigan has the largest stake of all the Great Lakes states because it is almost surrounded by four of the five Great Lakes and lies totally within the lakes' basin.

If approved by the U. S. Supreme Court, Kelley said the settlement will mark the end of a long and bitter controversy. Albert B. Marks of Philadelphia, the special master for the court, upheld last December Chicago's right to divert about the same amount of water it now does from Lake Michigan. And he said Chicago may not be forced to return to the lake treated sewage to replace water it removes for domestic and industrial use.

But a more diversion
However, Marks' report also said that diversion of water above 3,200 cubic feet a second on a harmful average could prove harmful to the six other states and to relations between the United States and Canada.

The proposed decree said Illinois and its municipalities, including Chicago, are enjoined from diverting more than the stipulated amount of water from Lake Michigan.

But it would leave room for Illinois to ask that the decree be modified, if necessary, to divert additional waste from the lake to meet "reasonable needs."

Wisconsin, Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan and New York have contended since 1900, when engineers reversed the flow of the Chicago River, that diversion of lake water has lowered levels in Lakes Michigan, Erie, Huron and Ontario, and their connecting waterways and the St. Lawrence River.

Mansfield Wants War Put Before U.N. For Solution

Hard Fighting At Both Ends Of S. Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — Hard fighting at both ends of South Vietnam was reported today, with 113 guerrillas killed in two battles with American infantrymen in the Mekong Delta and 52 of the enemy and 16 Americans killed in three clashes in the northern sector.

Red rocket and mortar attacks continued around the Delta paddy lands long controlled by the Viet Cong, flushed guerrilla forces frequently Monday and twice pushed them into stand-up fights in an area about 40 miles below Saigon.

Aided by air strikes, the infantrymen reported 113 of the enemy killed.

U.S. casualties were not reported.

Down 6 Helicopters

Red gunners in the northern province of Quang Ngai also brought down six U.S. helicopter gunships supporting troops of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division. One of the choppers was destroyed but big flying crane helicopters lifted the other five out to be repaired.

The paratroopers, part of an Army task force that has moved in to help the thinly spread Marines, suffered 7 killed and 34 wounded in a series of actions Monday.

Six Americans were wounded and one South Vietnamese was killed in the mortar attack before dawn at Hue, 60 miles below the demilitarized zone and the old imperial capital of Vietnam.

In the Marine battleground just below the zone, seven Leathernecks were killed and 77 wounded as part of the 9th regiment met an estimated 150 North Vietnamese in a 12-hour fight a mile from Con Thien.

The Marines reported killing 10 enemy regulars in the face of heavy small-arms and mortar fire.

Fight Near Da Nang

The 9th Marines have had 29 killed and 190 wounded in three days of fighting near Con Thien, one corner of "Leatherneck Square." The three other Marine outposts forming the square are Gio Linh, Dong Ha and Camp Carroll.

U.S. Marines in Operation Union, 22 miles south of Da Nang, reported killing 22 enemy Monday, with 6 Marines killed and 32 wounded.

A Marine spokesman said 10 other Marines were wounded in a U.S. jet air strike during the operation, but details were not immediately available.

In the hills above Duc Pho, 75 miles south of Da Nang, U.S. Army forces conducting Operation Malheur killed 20 enemy troops and lost 3 dead and 34 wounded.

U.S. fliers flew through heavy clouds over North Vietnam Monday to strike storage areas, gun emplacements and resupply convoys.

DONALD E. WARKS, 34, of Essexville, was killed instantly when his car struck an abutment near Bay City. Authorities believe Warks, the father of six children, fell asleep at the wheel. (AP Wirephoto)

Agreement Sets 35% Tariff Cut

GENEVA (AP) — More than four years of Kennedy Round negotiations have finally ended with agreement to cut tariffs an estimated 33 to 35 per cent on world trade now worth $10 billion a year.

The accord between the United States and the world's major commercial nations was reached just before midnight Monday after four intensive day and night sessions during which the negotiations appeared doomed at one point.

The reductions finally hammered out fell short of the 50 per cent over-all cut that had been sought, but they far surpassed any achieved before in tariff negotiations.

The agreement affects more than 80 nations and is expected to result in a big increase in world trade.

William Roth, head of the U.S. delegation, said the result was "tremendous world importance." He predicted that it would affect between $15 billion and $16 billion in U.S. exports and imports.

The United States exports $27

billion worth of goods a year and imports $19 billion worth.

The principal agreements included in the final package were:

— Tariff reductions on about 6,000 industrial and farm items in world trade, from live animals to waste and scrap. The cuts are reciprocal with every participating nation benefiting from new opportunities to export to the others.

It will be at least six to eight weeks, however, before businessmen will know what benefits will accrue to them.

Follow Thant Forecast
Mansfield's proposal, and a call by Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., for restrictions on U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, came in the wake of Thant's forecast last week that the Southeast Asian conflict could explode into World War III.

Cooper urged restricting bombing to infiltration routes near the demilitarized zone dividing the two Vietnams. He said if such a limitation on air strikes brought any affirmative response from Hanoi, all bombing should be suspended in an effort to get talks started.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, predicted Monday that U.S. military involvement in Asia could last "all the end of the century." Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the United States is opposed to Red China being given a free hand out there. We would not like to see one nation dominate all of Europe or all of Asia.

Parallels Vietnam
Wheeler found the current situation in Thailand highly reminiscent of South Vietnam in the early 1960s.

Rusk and Wheeler were quoted in the May 30 edition of Look magazine.

Chapin, S. N. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., Mansfield and others agreed in Senate debate that any further acceleration of the war makes it more likely that Red China may intervene and that the Soviet Union would be drawn in, thus bringing on a world war.

Rusk, whose previous judgment on Chinese intentions in Korea was questioned by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, had been scheduled for an appearance today at a closed session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to review the Vietnam issue.

The secretary canceled out to attend two sessions of congressional leaders and committee members for discussion of the waning of the Kennedy Round of European trade talks.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., indicated the committee will want to hear from Rusk.

Johnson Urges Senator Talk With Goldberg

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield proposes placing the Vietnam war squarely before the United Nations—an idea he says U.N. Secretary-General U Thant scotched last year.

Mansfield said Monday in a Senate speech that when he first proposed asking the U.N. Security Council to take up the war issue—in a Nov. 11, 1966, speech in Baltimore—he won backing from President Johnson.

He said Johnson phoned him after the speech and urged him to discuss the matter with Thant and Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Mansfield said Thant opposed the proposal, saying he would prefer to pursue peace talks privately rather than having Vietnam taken either to the Security Council or the U.N. General Assembly.

Mansfield later told The Associated Press he had not previously discussed publicly the President's request and Thant's response.

"I think the secretary-general has had his chance," Mansfield told his colleagues Monday. "He has done everything he can. It is now time to place the matter formally before the Security Council."

"In view of this background, I would think the President might look on this proposal with favor."

Follow Thant Forecast
Mansfield's proposal, and a call by Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., for restrictions on U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, came in the wake of Thant's forecast last week that the Southeast Asian conflict could explode into World War III.

Soldier Backing Council To Establish Waste Water Utility

LANSING (AP) — A massive march to demonstrate Michigan backing of soldiers fighting in Vietnam has been proposed by a state senator.

Sen. Basil Brown, D-Detroit, made the proposal in a Senate resolution Monday night.

Brown asked all patriotic, fraternal, veterans and university groups to join in the march as part of the observation of Flag Day on June 14.

Brown, a Pacific Theater veteran of World War II, said his proposal is backed by several veterans organizations.

Parades in Detroit and other major Michigan cities could show "massive support for our boys fighting in Vietnam," Brown said.

Brown said he would ask Republican Gov. George Romney to join in the march. He said he plans to contact every veterans group in the state to ask them "to march down Woodward Ave. in Detroit."

"There is overwhelming support throughout Michigan, as well as other parts of the country, for our position in Vietnam," Brown said. "The vocal groups on the other side of the question continue, however, to drown out those of us supporting our troops in this most difficult war."

Henri Dunant, Swiss, and Frederick Passy, French, were the first two men to win the Nobel Peace Prize.

The City of Escanaba is ending one municipal utility (central steam heating) and will establish another—a wastewater (sewage) treatment utility.

First reading of the ordinance creating the waste water utility and of an ordinance to charge a rate to users of the municipal waste water system will be given at the meeting of the Council to be held at 8 p. m. Thursday in the City Hall.

Beginning July 1, 1967, water customers will be billed for sewer service.

Soo Hill PTA Concludes Activities

The final meeting of the school year was held by the Soo Hill PTA Thursday evening with Mrs. Keith Mattson, president.

Keiko Ono, a Japanese student, who is presently attending attending Gladstone High School, appeared in her native costume and told of life in her country.

Dick Verch of the Bay de Noc Community College explained the necessity of the coming millage request for the college which would cover a ten year period.

Incoming officers were installed by Mrs. Leo Viquette, regional vice president for the Upper Peninsula.

During the evening, projects from the Science and Hobby Fair were on exhibit. Judges for the event were Mrs. Frank Neumeier, Leo Alperovitz and Dick Verch. The following students were awarded ribbons: Donnie Cappeart, Jim Winkler, Linda Gelina, Cathy Larson.

A coffee hour followed the meeting, served by the outgoing officers.

The rate schedule is based on water consumption volume. In summertime when the amount of water is high, the rate will be 40 per cent of the amount of water used; and in winter it will be based on 50 per cent of the water used.

The anticipated revenues from this rate will be $82,500 annually.

Now From Taxes
In the past the cost of operating the wastewater (sanitary sewage) plant and the sanitary sewage system was spread on the tax rolls. The new rate method will place the cost on the users of the utility.

"Most of the cities our size in the state and the U. P. have been operating wastewater departments as utilities for many years," said City Manager George Harvey.

"Presently it is necessary for the city to appropriate almost $82,500 to run the wastewater system annually. Since 1957 the city has provided an additional $750,000 on plant improvements and sanitary sewer construction."

The city is applicant at present for almost $200,000 of planned sewage and collection and pumping facilities.

The Users Pay
"In the face of future requests and requirements of our citizens we can be sure that unless the system is placed upon a self-supporting utility basis, money for these needs will have to come from increased taxes from the property owners," the city manager explained.

He said the feeling is that it is "far more equitable to have all users of the facilities help support the cost of operation, based upon the demand each user places on the system, than to have only the property owner pay for these costs."

At the Council meeting Thursday there will be first reading of other rate ordinances.

The electric rate will be virtually unchanged, with a reconnection fee to be put into effect.

The water rate ordinance will be unchanged, but there will be the waste water rate adopted as explained previously.

To Adopt Budget
The yacht harbor ordinance will have a mooring charge of $10 added, assuring boat owners better service and the city better control of the craft served at the basin.

The city tax levy ordinance will remain unchanged at $14.50 per $1,000 of assessed valuation—but the levy will be spread on the state equalized valuation. The increase in city revenue as a result will be about $60,000, representing about 1.75 mills.

The public hearing and adoption of the 1967-68 budget, a part of the whole procedure in financing city operations and the working of the municipal utilities, is set for Thursday night. The budget total is $4,064,715—some $900,000 higher than last year.

The hearing of objections to a list of improvements that will include extension of a water main, extension of sanitary sewers, and the paving of streets is also on the agenda.

Bark River Scouts Meet
The Cub Scout 244 Pack meeting was held Thursday night in the Bark River-Harris Elementary School.

Den II won the traveling trophy and presented a skit, "Life in the Mountains," in keeping with the month's theme "Mountains of America." Den III's skit was, "Parade of the Mountaineers." Cubmaster Jack Erickson assisted by Raymond LaBelle led a parent's participation skit, "I think I'll Climb a Mountain."

Cubmaster Erickson presented awards to the following: Harold Bergquist, Donald Ben, Daniel Derocher, Daniel Ayres, Stephen Wendrick, Kris Erickson, and Matt Hanson. The closing reading was, "Don't Quit," by the Cubmaster. Lunch was served by the mothers.

Each speaker is an expert in his particular field and topics range from "Life in a Scottish Castle" and "Life in Mexico as Seen by an American Student" to various scientific, political and historical subjects.

Requests should be sent to the University's Division of Continuing Education and should be made at least three weeks before the lecturer is needed. For commencement speakers a six-week notice is desirable.

Joe's Girl

Joseph Stalin's daughter has come to America to live. Her action is one of the significant comments on our times.

In a world of races, one person is hardly a statistic, but Svetlana Stalin Alliluyeva Singh is a witness to America's greatness whose choice should not be lost in the global appraisal of national values.

The United States has not been successful in a big way in getting its usual allies of the Free World to join us in opposing the communists in Vietnam. It is not that the communists are deceiving informed nations that the war in Vietnam is a purely civil uprising. It is more that the free nations do not want to get involved in a war which bled France white and which is now providing a quicksand for the United States.

The war, then, is not a good evaluation of the world's regard for the United States and for Russia. Any judgment on the two is to be heavily weighted by consideration of their military strength. This is one valid judgment on a nation: its ability to defend itself and preserve its freedom and protect its people, but it is only one and it is a means to an end and not an end in itself.

Greatness in a nation has as a supreme goal providing for the individual citizen the maximum opportunity for personal greatness. When Svetlana decided to come from India to the United States she knew, even though she has a great naïveté about some worldly things, that the world would regard it as an expression of her preference for America over the Russia which her father ruled and tyrannized for so many years.

Her personal rejection of communism appears to have been strongly influenced by her religious feeling. She was baptized and confirmed in the Russian Orthodox Church in May, 1932 in Moscow. The faith uses the Greek rite of Christianity. She noted that her parents and ancestors had belonged to this church but omitted mention that her monster father had started studies for the priesthood in it.

Mrs. Singh thinks that the failure of Christianity in Russia, where the Orthodox Church became a political arm of the czarist government, contributed to the defeat of the government and the rise of communism. The church persecuted all other religious groups in Russia. Svetlana was, of course, helpless to prevent the genocide practiced by her father among the kulaks and the other atrocities in his reign of terror, but the Christian ideal of free will evolved in her and triumphed over communism.

Her Christianity seems not fundamentalist, but attuned to the new call in the Christian church for social action in good works and for an expression of faith in today's world and today's way. If Christianity is to flourish, she thinks, it must be related to the needs of people, especially the underprivileged. Svetlana, informed that the book she has written about her life will probably make her a million dollars, said that if it did she would use a big part of it to aid the village in India in which she had been living.

Svetlana is a witness to the fact that truth will out. Stalin's own daughter says that communism does not satisfy the person of conscience and responsibility. It is a quiet, forceful answer to our question whether communism may prevail after all with its theme of merciless might used to defy the state. Stalin could kill millions but he couldn't convince his own daughter.

Nixon Ups '68 Pace

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — In a large eastern state, some Republican professionals who have leaned toward Michigan Gov. George Romney as the likeliest 1968 prospect to win the presidency now are saying that President Johnson has sagged so low that "maybe even Richard Nixon can win."

Already solid with the highly conservative GOP county chairmen and on a rising curve with the Republican rank and file, Nixon could quickly become a clear favorite for the nomination if the above response became a contagion among hard-headed professionals who badly want to win.

As one appraiser puts it: "Romney almost has to root for Johnson not to look too bad."

Surface and sub-surface signs indicate Nixon's backers are hard at the business of encouraging his acceptability to a wider party spectrum, both as a possible winner and as the man most qualified for the job.

Quietly, former GOP Congressman Robert Ellsworth of Kansas, who accompanied Nixon on his recent European tour, has written letters to many key Republicans, telling them of Nixon's experiences on the trip. It registers as a neat combination of soft sell-hard sell.

It is assumed in moderate GOP circles that Florida Gov. Claude Kirk's reported stirring of the 1968 vice presidential front is basically a Nixon ploy. Kirk is getting help from a New York public relations man, William Safire, who for months has been sitting in on Nixon strategy conferences.

Nixon, of course, already has widespread support for 1968 from the southern states, but he is not a man to take things for granted—in Florida or anywhere else.

While the Nixon forces busy themselves without rest, and their man goes on piling up credits as a foreign affairs specialist by traveling in Asia, Romney, the rival candidate, is doing much better for himself than he was a few months ago.

His Vietnam speech at Hartford, his civil rights utterances in New York after a tough Jewish audience, his short foray into Virginia have all been put down by the professionals as pluses.

Nor has it hurt him that New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, in the course of knocking down interest in himself as a candidate, has made ringingly clear the depth of his commitment to Romney.

Yet, not only Rockefeller and his aides but a good many other party moderates are deeply disturbed at the evident tendency of some leaders to fragment moderate forces by dwelling on Rockefeller, Illinois Sen. Charles Percy and others as alternatives to Romney.

One veteran professional said of such efforts by Gov. Thomas McCall of Oregon, Gov. Spiro Agnew of Maryland and others unnamed: "If they don't watch out, they're going to get it right in the face. They are playing right into Nixon's hands."

Rockefeller's trouble of course, is that—short of his lying down in the road and letting somebody else's bandwagon roll over him—too many in his party really do not believe his noncandidacy. He may still have to find stronger language if he wants to convince all hands.

As for Percy, the most common professional reading is playing three spades doubled.

It has been my lot for a few years to write to Michigan legislators in regard to an altruistic matter of some civic importance — nothing to be gained except by John Q. Public.

Understandably, few of these solons show any fiery interest in this idea involving only tedium and some frustration on their part.

However, Mr. Charles H. Varnum — a gentleman whom I have never met — is so startling an exception to many of his bored colleagues that I won't rest easy until the impression of him as an honest and alert worker on the job is broadcast a bit.

He didn't like his prospects. It looked as if the best he could do would be to collect five spade tricks and lose 700 points which would be a very bad score because all East and West could make would be a vulnerable game in either hearts or no-trump.

Mary Jane points out that South held his losses to a respectable 500 by using the diamond suit as a threat. He ruffed the second heart and led a diamond East won with the ace and led a third heart. South ruffed that also and played a second diamond. West was in with the ten and cashed his queen to see if everyone would follow. When East showed out, West decided to lead ace and another spade which gave South a sixth trump trick.

We have only space to point out that as long as South played nothing but diamonds and would make the right guess in case East led the five of spades after taking his diamond late South was sure of his sixth trick and a good score.

The introduction to Mary Jane Farrell's chapter on "Bridge for Women" mentions that long before she took over as the world's leading master point winner among women she had established a reputation as the most ethical, courteous and nicest opponent one could meet.

We aren't going to go quite that far. We will say that she ties for first in each of those three categories with a few other women and some men. Jules Farrell, her husband, is a mighty good player also and he and Mary Jane have won many titles together.

Mary Jane has taken on the tough job of discussing preemptive bids. We aren't going to get into the merit or lack of merit of East's pass of the three spade double or of South's nonvulnerable three spade opening. Suffice to say, that the game was match point duplicate and South was playing three spades doubled.

As for Percy, the most common professional reading is playing three spades doubled.

The Doctor Ann Landers

Says: Parents' Home Not Recreation Center

By Wayne B. Brandstadt, M.D.

Q—What causes cataracts? How are they removed? Can they return after operation? How dangerous is the operation?

A—Clouding of the crystalline lens is caused by a breakdown in its structure due to age. The prevalence of cataracts increases with the years after 50. Other causative factors include diabetes and occupations associated with exposure to intense heat or light. Cataracts are removed by making a slit in the lens capsule and applying the tip of a freezing probe to the lens. The lens then sticks to the probe and can readily be drawn out. Since the entire lens is removed, there can be no recurrence, but a cataract may form in the opposite eye. In the hands of a skilled surgeon the operation is not dangerous.

Q—I am 84 and have cataracts. Can they be dissolved or must they be removed surgically?

A—This is a constantly recurring question. Surgeons used to postpone operation on a cataract until it was considered ripe. Now an enzyme may be used to dissolve the attachment of the lens to its surrounding capsule so that it is no longer necessary to delay removal of the cataract, but the latter cannot be dissolved.

Q—Is it possible to tell with the naked eye whether another person has a cataract? With a cataract, does a white film grow over the eye?

A—Only a far-advanced cataract can be seen with the naked eye. The clouding is fairly deep within the eye and would not be regarded as a film.

Q—I have heard that bathing the eyes with castor oil will cause a cataract to go away. Would it harm the eye in any way to try this remedy?

A—There is no basis for the assumption that castor oil will either benefit or prevent a cataract. Since I have never applied castor oil to an eye, I cannot say whether it would be harmful.

Q—What is quinidine used for? Does it help high blood pressure?

A—This drug is used to control some types of rapid heart rate or irregular heart beats. The dosage must be carefully regulated to prevent undesirable side effects. It is not recommended for the control of high blood pressure.

Dear Ann Landers: I never expected you, a person concerned with molding values for young people, to use a coarse and vulgar word when describing a girl who was not born with a bountiful measure of nature's blessings — namely good looks. You began your advice to a young man who wondered if he was obligated to take out a newcomer to the city, by saying — "if the girl is a dog..."

The term "dog" for a plain-looking girl is a cheap and degrading manner of expression which I bitterly resent. I would like to know who sets the standards. By what shallow criteria are they judging? Some of the so-called "dogs" have a fine set of working brains and a sharp sense of humor. Several "dogs" I have known have sparkling personalities and are stimulating company.

How about setting an example for our young people by putting an end to such crass and thoughtless use of the language? — HOMELY HANNAH

Dear Hannah: If a girl has a fine set of working brains, a sharp sense of humor and a sparkling personality, she is no dog.

Moreover, beauty is no guarantee that a girl will be popular. Many a good looking dame is sitting home nights with her beautiful face and spectacular measurements because she is dumb, and poor company. (P.S. No letters please from you birds at Yale requesting the names and addresses of these dumb girls.)

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I both have grown children from previous marriages. We love them all, and they must love us, too, judging from the frequency of their visits. But now I have a problem and I beg your assistance.

Last night we had invited a couple to dinner. Both my husband and I were looking forward to the evening with these new friends whom we had hoped to get to know better. I prepared a beautiful meal. Just as we were enjoying some delightful conversation over our coffee, my husband's daughter and her family barged in.

The children looked like fugitives from a pig pen. They jumped on the furniture and demanded cake and soda pop, which they proceeded to spill.

Road Plan Brings Gov. Knowles To Visit Michigan

THREE LAKES, Wis., (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles planned to visit Michigan Monday with a proposal for a Wisconsin road into Michigan's new Sylvania wildlife tract.

Knowles was to suggest to the U. S. Forest Service that a road be built to provide Wisconsin tourists with access to the wooded Sylvania acreage which the government acquired earlier this year.

The tract in Michigan's Upper Peninsula borders Wisconsin for about five miles.

Detroit Youth Job Search On

DETROIT (AP) — Facing sharply cut employment opportunities, Detroit groups are planning to launch a full-scale assault on summertime idleness among the city's youth.

"Prospects for summer jobs for youths are not as good as they were a year ago," said Malcolm R. Lovell Jr., director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

He cited "a higher rate of unemployment among those regularly employed, cutbacks in manufacturing and a general slowdown in the economy."

Unemployment for Detroit reached 77,000, or 4.7 per cent, this month. The total was 37,000 higher than a year ago, Lovell said.

But about 25 representatives of public and private agencies in the six-county Detroit area have decided on a campaign to enlist 6,000 employers to add one or two jobs each to their work forces.

As many as 20,000 jobs could result from the effort, said one of the representatives, of the Greater Detroit Board of Commerce.

And the city's antipoverty agencies are hoping to boost the number of persons either working or participating in summertime programs.

Northerner Heads State's Students

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP) — Representatives of nine Michigan colleges and universities have formed a group called the Michigan Association of Student Governments.

The students at the meeting here said the body was formed to give the state's 250,000 college students "a visible force in state affairs."

The association said a state central committee representing four major regions in the state will be announced to govern the body.

Don L. Keskey, student body president at Northern Michigan, was elected president.

Represented were Eastern Michigan, Michigan Lutheran, Michigan State, Lansing Community College, Delta, Central Michigan, Lake Superior State, Northern Michigan and Michigan Tech.

German Grandmother Free After 11 Years

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A three-week pass to West Berlin was Alfreda Oppen's ticket to freedom.

She waited 13 years for the opportunity.

"We tried to get the East Germans to permit mother to join us here," said Ursula Wendt. "But always there was refusal and red tape."

Finally, the East German government relaxed regulations to permit persons over 65 to go from East to West Berlin on a three-week pass once a year.

Mrs. Oppen, a widow, turned 65 this year. She immediately applied for a pass—and informed Mrs. Wendt.

Her daughter in Lancaster, Calif., a Los Angeles suburb, made arrangements with the American consul in West Berlin to expedite processing of Mrs. Oppen's visa.

The pass started April 26, and Mrs. Oppen—her visa finally cleared with the help of a congressman and the U.S. Immigration Service—left for the West.

On Mother's Day

After her plane from London arrived in Los Angeles Mother's day she collapsed in her daughter's arms in tears.

At the airport were Mrs. Wendt, 38, her husband, Wolfgang, 38, and their son, Klaus, 18.

The Wendts, who had not seen Mrs. Oppen since they left West Berlin 13 years ago, praised Rep. Ed Reineck, R-Calif., for cutting red tape and expediting processing of her visa so she could leave before the pass expired.

Admires Homes

Mrs. Oppen, who speaks only German, sobbed, "I'm so glad, so happy," at the airport. By-standers also cried.

Said Wendt, a laboratory technician: "I'm not ashamed of tears."

On the ride to Lancaster, Wendt said, Mrs. Oppen remarked at the quality of the homes she was passing in an average neighborhood.

She said, "That must be where high society lives."

Although his mother-in-law brought only one suitcase, Wendt said, "She doesn't need anything else—we're going to take good care of her." Their home has four bedrooms.

Cherry Queen Will Wear A Rajah's Crown

TRAVERSE CITY (AP) — The "Rajah's Lost Crown", studded with 687 diamonds, rubies, sapphires, emeralds and pearls, will be worn by the National Cherry Queen who will be selected here July 1.

Used for the first time since it was worn by Indian royalty, the crown will be brought to Traverse City for the coronation by its owners, the Meyer's Jewelry Co. of Detroit.

The gold crown was stolen in India in 1903 and years later turned up in England. It was purchased for an American jewel collection and was displayed at the 1939 New York World's Fair.

Safe Auto Race

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The auto race scheduled Friday in the Milwaukee Stadium parking lot for teen-agers may prove to be the safest contest on wheels.

High school students, organized in 29-member teams, will push small foreign cars for two hours around the track with engines off.

Jamestown Now 360 Years Old

JAMESTOWN, Va. (AP) — The 360th anniversary has been commemorated here of the founding of the first permanent English settlement in the New World.

Gordon Gray, chairman of the National Trust for Historic Preservation, told an assemblage that among this nation's greatest problems today is "fragmentation of respect for our established institutions."

"I suggest that when we go beyond honest question or dissent into disrespect," Gray said, "this leads to hostility and if unchecked to ultimate destruction."

Rapid River Passes Tax

RAPID RIVER—The Rapid River school district was on a more solid financial ground today after passage Monday of a request asking five mills for three years.

Vote on the question was an overwhelming 324 to 137, with all three precincts voting in favor of the millage. Bay de Noc Township voted 32-23, Ensign 78-22, and Masonville 214-92.

"This certainly is an indication that the people of the Rapid River school district want to do everything possible for their youngsters," said Superintendent Walter Peters. "It's a wonderful step in the right direction."

The millage will be levied on the tax rolls of 1967-68-69 and produce about $30,000 per year when spread across the district's valuation of about $6 million. Funds will be used to meet increased operating expenses of the district and also to do renovation work on school buildings.

The additional millage also assures Rapid River full state aid for another year, bringing total operational levy for the district to 14.7 mills, above the minimum 11 mills required by the state this year.

Stutterers Are Offered Course

An extensive eight-week therapy program for stutterers, 16 years of age and older, will be conducted at Northern Michigan University June 21 through Aug. 11. Dr. Lonnie Emerick, assistant professor at NMU's speech clinic, said participants will be seen about 15 hours per week for group and individual work. Information may be obtained by writing Emerick or by calling him at 225-5811, Ext. 2105.

In the annual school board election June 12, Supt. Peters said that only two candidates have filed petitions for the request asking five mills for three years.

Incumbent Ernest Vanderhoff has filed for reelection to a four year term and Wayne Christoff of Ensign, a teacher in the Flat Rock school district, is seeking election to the seat on the Board now held by Mrs. Loyal (Helen) Sigfrids. She was appointed to the board to fill a vacancy a year ago and has declined to run for a full term.

Tourist Facilities Called Area Need

Obsolescence and lack of facilities are holding back tourism development in the Upper Peninsula. Iain Christie of Michigan State University told Delta County's meeting on tourism development at the State Office Building Monday night.

The meeting was one of a series being held in all the counties of the Upper Peninsula to present report on a study made by MSU recreation business experts at the request of UPACAP and with financial aid from the Economic Development Administration. Joseph Heirman, Delta County Extension director, presided at the meeting.

"The Upper Peninsula has natural resources and assets which lend themselves to exploitation for tourism development," Christie told the audience "and these have not been spoiled by haphazard planning."

Chance For Growth
"There is an opportunity to develop the area as a unit but historically the supply of facilities lags behind demand. If the area can anticipate it by providing the services and facilities which tourists want, then we can hope for an increased tourism business."

"There is thinking now about how to organize the Peninsula for tourism. If people get together and analyze what we have, both natural and man-made, the kind of people who come to the U.P. and the kind who might come to the U.P.; and if we promote it together and in specific areas, these are the first steps in developing a tourism program."

The discussion stressed that tourist businesses must work together more if they are going to sponsor travel package offerings that will bring more tourists into this area. One motel, hotel or resort cannot sponsor such travel inducements; they come out of cooperation of many establishments in an area.

New "Image" Needed
It was pointed out that people will not come to the U.P. until they know what they're going to get before leaving their own homes. And that people probably also have a wrong image of the U.P.; that they think it's a cold-barren, wilderness area.

"It's a mistake to sell the U.P. as an area of water skiing because other areas have it," said Christie. "This area has special attractions in delightfully cool summers and in winters which are not nearly as cold as the big city people to the south think they are. We get back to the need for knowing what our product is and selling it accordingly."

"The business is growing now. It peaked in 1959 and then trailed off through 1964, but it's showing signs of coming back now."

Interest Not Widespread
Christie said the turnout for his meetings have been small. People who attend them think that the U.P. should work more as a unit to promote itself. The big question is always: How are we going to pay for tourism development?

"We are going to have a tourism education program and talk about what tourism is, economically and socially," said Christie. "We'll talk about why we have tourism and we'll discuss how other people cope with its problems."

"Michigan State University will start this program in the fall, and we'll bring it to the people of the Upper Peninsula. We'll give examples of how the Upper Peninsula can succeed with tourism ventures and we'll get into the hosting end of the business."

Recreation Complexes
"I'd like to show some of the things that I've seen where I've worked before, in France and Spain, Pennsylvania and Great Britain."

The discussion of means for stimulation of U.P. tourism suggested that the Upper Michigan Tourist Association cannot undertake a comprehensive program alone, but should work in partnership with UPACAP, Operation Action - U.P., the universities, the Conservation Department, Forest Service and other organizations to give full impetus to the program of tourism development.

The Delta meeting discussed the proposal for a series of recreational complexes across the U.P., stressing those proposed for the Delta area, Menominee and St. Ignace. The local complex would stress the lake and river and it was suggested that hovercraft might be used to bring its dramatic beauty to the enjoyment of visitors.

Cornell People To Hear Program On College Vote

The people of the Cornell area are invited to a meeting at the Cornell Hall at 8:30 tonight to receive information on the need of Bay de Noc Community College for millage for operations and the construction of a campus.

The speakers will be Joseph Heirman, chairman of the Board of Trustees, and Richard Rinehart, president of Bay de Noc Community College. The meeting is sponsored by the Cornell Lions Club.

Tax Allocation Order Issued

The Delta County Tax Allocation Board set the 1967 allocation Monday night and the only changes from 1966 allocation came in rates set for five townships.

County rate remained at 7.2 mills and the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate School district will continue to receive one-tenth of a mill from the allowable 15 mills of local taxes.

All township units except Ford River, Cornell and Wells were allocated one mill by the Board, leaving 6.7 mills for all school districts in the county except the Escanaba Area district.

The Area schools will receive 7.2 mills because both Cornell and Ford River townships receive only a half a mill and Wells Township did not request any allocation.

Township changes came in Bay de Noc, Brampton, Ensign, Fairbanks and Masonville townships. Bay de Noc, Ensign and Masonville each were allocated one mill, an increase of three tenths of a mill over 1966. Fairbanks Township, which didn't request any millage last year, asked for and received one mill for 1967. Brampton Township increased from .95 mill to 1.0.

Cecil Chase, representing the City of Escanaba, was chairman of the board. Other members included Harold Gustafson of Ensign, chairman of the Board of Supervisors Ways and Means Committee; Dr. Vernon Johnson of Escanaba, representing the largest school district, Escanaba Area; Fred Saykily of Escanaba, member at large; R. L. Godmer of Gladstone, Intermediate school district superintendent; and Anne S. Villeneuve of Escanaba, county treasurer.

Swindlers Move Into Art Field

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — With so many industrialists collecting art for the sake of business as well as art, it is understandable that swindlers should move in. Fake art is a profitable business.

Even those industrialists who are acknowledged authorities on the subtleties of art, and who collect for love rather than money, are considered quite vulnerable.

The most recent alleged swindle involves paintings purchased by Algor H. Meadows of Dallas, Tex., a highly successful oilman, who some New York dealers claim was swindled out of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

There is an enormous demand today for such as Miro's, Derains, Chagalls, Modiglianis, Picassos. So great is the demand, in fact, that it far exceeds the supply. And so the stage is set.

Clever swindlers might commission a fake, obtain elaborate pedigrees, show the fake in a respectable place, and then put it on the market as the real thing. Desire overcomes discretion and the fake is purchased. The painting then might adorn the reception hall of a corporation, or more often will hang in spurious splendor in the industrialist's home, to be admired by his insurance agent and perhaps only a few friends.

As authentic paintings hang they grow in value, because the art market is inflated with willing cash buyers. Within the past year a small Renoir, 15 by 18 inches, sold for $290,000 in Paris.

In New York, Parke-Bernet auction galleries reported in the last complete season it obtained its greatest gross sales in the 29 years of its existence, some $23,519,367. A Cezanne was sold for $800,000.

Christie's, a London auctioneer, boasted recently of its success in obtaining important pictures from Americans, some of them industrialists, for sale in London. The reason, he said, was higher prices than in New York.

"It also reflects the way the art market booms even when money is tight," said John Richardson, U.S. representative.

Highway Defect Neglect Gets A Blast From Nader

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Ralph Nader, auto safety critic, charged that various state motor vehicle departments have "encouraged police to ignore highway defects" to protect the departments "from litigation they have encouraged."

Nader told the lawyers in a seminar on negligence "The law (new federal safety legislation) is to serve the people and its utility will depend upon the insistence and persistence of lawyers to get the government to disclose the facts (of auto defects) for everybody to see."

"The more people know, the more the vehicle's role will be targeted in court. You must develop a constitutional argument for review by the Supreme Court. What is involved here is a judicial evolution. Right now the driver is automatically to blame. I hope this is all going to change gradually."

"There is every indication prices will go still higher. The moral is that art is often a safer investment than the stock market."

LORRAINE ROYER, 15, built an almost 10-foot long and three-foot high model of the Mackinac Bridge from sugar-cubes and odds-and-ends and won first prize in Michigan Week project at suburban Detroit's Edgar Guest Junior High School in Roseville. She said, "We had to make something and I decided it might as well be something big." Lorraine said it took her two weeks to build. Now she is for anyone who might like to display her model. Nobody seems interested she says. (AP Wirephoto)

Auto Makers Boost Output

DETROIT (AP) — There was general belief in the auto industry today that the rockiest part of its 1967 sales road had been passed.

Strong early May sales reports from virtually every segment of the auto market were reflected in production quotas set in most auto factories.

The preliminary report for last week showed auto output in U. S. plants reached nearly 175,000 units, the best showing of calendar 1967. The old 1967 mark was set in the week of April 17-22 when 172,996 cars were built.

Another strong production week appeared on tap this time around with American Motors adding a second shift today to bring its output of its lowest American line to 2,400 a week, compared with 1,200 built last week.

While increasing output of its American line, AMC made some cuts in its production rate for its other lines so the 1,200 added Americans was not all plus, insofar as AMC production was concerned.

Cadillac, only car line whose production is running ahead of its 1966 model pace, worked overtime last Saturday to keep up with demand. Cadillac had built 88,049 of the 1967's through last weekend, compared with 87,496 at this point a year ago.

Through last week, auto companies had built 2,872,740 cars in the calendar year, far behind the 1966 pace which showed 3,668,656 cars built in the comparable span.

The 3-millionth car of calendar 1967 is due to roll off an assembly line next Thursday, just four weeks behind its 1966 counterpart which was built April 20, 1966.

Doctors Propose Aid For Wounded Vietnam Children

NEW YORK (AP) — A team of American physicians which spent three weeks touring South Vietnam said today that only about one third of the civilians injured by the war ever reach the "woefully inadequate medical facilities."

Three doctors, members of the Committee of Responsibility, Inc., called on the committee to consider the possibility of an evacuation program for some war-injured children.

Dr. Henry Mayer of Redwood City, Calif., said, "Short of ending the war, this is our answer to helping these children."

Based on a tour of Vietnamese Ministry of Health hospitals in South Vietnam, the team issued a report which said that, if the war casualties of the first three months of 1967 are an indicator 10,000 children will be hurt this year by the military operations of both sides.

Should an evacuation program go into full operation, 100 to 150 children could be treated each year, according to Dr. John Constable of Boston, Mass.

The third member of the group, which returned from the tour last week, was Dr. Theodore Tapper of Philadelphia. They reported their findings at a news conference.

Police Dog Finds Lost 2-Year-Old

BITELY (AP) — Thanks to a police dog named "Rocky," 2-year-old Marsha Thomas is safe and sound today.

Marsha wandered away from the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Thomas, in this northern Newwaygo County town Saturday night.

A search party of some 200 hunted in vain for the girl for three hours.

The dog, "Rocky," was brought in from the Grand Haven State Police post. He headed 500 feet into a thick willow swamp about one quarter of a mile from the Thomas home.

There he found the girl sitting in water up to her waist.

Marsha the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Thomas of Grand Rapids, was suffering from exhaustion, but was otherwise unharmed.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

Will you pay the price of a Cadillac...and not get one?

Literally thousands of people are driving cars that cost as much as a Cadillac—yet provide far less in motoring satisfaction, distinction and lasting value. A few minutes with an authorized Cadillac dealer and a few miles at the wheel of a Cadillac can prevent you from making this unnecessary compromise. The fact is, if you're planning to buy in the medium-price range, an investigation could show that you are very close to a Cadillac in cost. And it is generally acknowledged that a Cadillac holds its value so well that it actually costs less to own than many lower priced cars. Right now, your authorized dealer has a fine selection of models and colors—with all the advanced engineering, superb performance and many safety features that make a Cadillac a Cadillac. Every year you wait is costing you its price in personal pleasure and satisfaction. Why not see your Cadillac dealer before the week is out?

Bank Gift Aids Boy Scout Fund

The Hiawathaland Council Boy Scout Camp Development Campaign has received an early boost with the receipt of a $2,400 gift investment from the State Savings Bank of Manistique. H. K. Bundy, president, said the bank's directors have long been interested in the benefits which scouting has for the boys of the Upper Peninsula and want to help assure the success of this campaign. The bank has chosen to memorialize its gift in the form of a program shelter at the site of the new camp.

The check was received by Frank S. Hoholik, general chairman of the campaign. According to Hoholik, the $250,000 effort is peninsula-wide and is designed to provide for a new Boy Scout camp here in the U. P. The former camp, a 10 acre piece of leased land in the Hiawatha Forest, has been refused renewal of its license by health authorities.

A new site has been selected in Alger County. It is a 345 acre wilderness tract which includes full control of a 65 acre lake. Its purchase is necessary if scouting is to serve the youth of the Upper Peninsula with its training and educational programs, said Hoholik, president of the Manistique Pulp & Paper Co.

The Northern Michigan University chapter of Alpha Phi Omega spent a recent weekend doing outdoor work at the new Boy Scout camp. Fourteen college men left on a Friday afternoon after classes and spent the weekend doing a job of clearing brush and blazing wilderness trails to prepare for the camping season. The facility is scheduled to receive its first Scouts on July 9.

Alpha Phi Omega, an international service fraternity, is composed of former Boy Scouts who believe in the continuing value of the scouting program. Its members take part in many civic volunteer activities perpetuating the Boy Scout creed into adult life. Here in the U. P., along with the Northern Michigan University chapter of APO, there is also one at Michigan Tech in Houghton and a third presently being formed at Lake Superior University in the Soo.

Wedding License Fee Boosted $2

LANSING (AP) — If you plan to get married in Michigan, do it now. You can save $2.

But if you'd like to marry your mother-in-law, do it in some other state.

Sent to the governor for his signature Monday was a bill to raise the marriage license fee for Michigan residents from $3 to $5 and impose a special $10 charge if both applicants are nonresidents.

Rep. Raymond Kehres, D-Monroe, sponsored the measure. It is designed to help pay for accommodating out-of-staters who flock to southern Michigan counties to tie the knot.

The House joined the Senate in giving the bill immediate effect. That means it becomes law as soon as Gov. George Romney signs it.

The House also agreed with Senate action in deleting material it had written into the bill to permit persons to marry certain relatives — including in-laws and, with probate court approval, first cousins.

Also given immediate effect by the House and sent to the governor were bills that would permit servicemen on furlough to hunt without charge and give the State Public Service Commission regulatory power over nonmunicipal water companies with 175 customers or more.

Meanwhile, the House passed and sent to the Senate bills for regulation of mail-order insurance, outdoor advertising, haz-

Romney Eligible Declares Rocky

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says Michigan Gov. George Romney can run for president even though he was born in Mexico.

The New York Republican, chief backer of Romney in the East, held Monday that the question of Romney's eligibility raised by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., was "an early case of politics."

Celler, dean of New York's congressional delegation, said he has "serious doubts" about Romney being eligible to run for president because he was not born in the United States. He proposed that a Republican commission be named to study the question.

"It's a matter of law," Rockefeller responded. "Gov. Romney and all of his friends are satisfied that he is qualified. I don't see why you need a commission."

Rockefeller also is supporting U.S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., as Romney's running mate for vice president. Javits added, "This is a hardy perennial but more imaginary than real. If the Republican party nominates Gov. Romney and the people elect him president, I am sure there will be no question about him filling the office."

Aides in Javits' office said the constitutionality of Romney's eligibility could not be legally raised unless he were actually in office. Until that time, they said, the question is hypothetical.

Hunt For Boys Near New Cave

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) — Rescue operations centered today on a bluff overlooking the Mississippi River at Hannibal, Mo., called Lover's Leap as the search for three missing boys entered its sixth day.

Bill Bridges, vice commander of Hannibal's Mark Twain Emergency Squad, said classmates of Craig Dowell, 14, had told of his excitement about a new cave he had discovered on Lover's Leap.

Missing along with the Dowell boy are Joey Hoag, 13, and a brother Billy, 11.

After a rest break of a few hours, volunteers began a systematic march over the bluff, hunting for a previously undiscovered cave entrance where the boys might have disappeared.

Lover's Leap was one of the two places the boys were seen last Wednesday afternoon before they vanished. The steep bluff has been searched again and again by volunteers, National Guardsmen and members of the Hoag and Dowell families.

The three youngsters also were seen crawling into a newly opened entrance to Murphy's Cave several hundred yards from Lover's Leap, carrying a shovel and flashlights.

However, no evidence has been found to indicate that the boys were at either location.

Peninsula Milk Production Dips

Dairy farmers of the Upper Peninsula produced less milk in April than they did a year ago, despite the increasing price of milk, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reports in its milk marketing statement.

The report shows the continuing attrition in the area's dairy industry, with costs rising and more and more farmers quitting the business. There were 478 U.P. farmers producing milk under the federal marketing order a year ago and only 440 in April of this year. The number of can producers slipped from 107 to 96, but more significantly even the number of modernized farm tank producers skidded, from 371 to 344.

As the number of farms declined the production per farm increased, from 682 pounds per day a year ago to 728 in April. The value of U.P. production also rose, from $431,574 to $454,103 despite the smaller number of producers, and the 7 day average income for producers rose from $210.67 to $240.81.

Total production was 9.6 million pounds compared with 9.78 million pounds.

The blend (average) price of 3.5 butterfat milk was $4.57 a hundredweight compared with $4.30 a year ago. The production of Class 1 (bottling) milk at $4.860 decline and the production of Class 2 (manufacturing) milk, at $3.98 increased.

Daily average production dipped from 326,170 pounds to 320,227.

Need Young Men As Conservation Officer Recruits

Men between 21 and 30 years old with high school diplomas and a flair for man-sized outdoor jobs are being sought as conservation officer recruits in Michigan.

Officer hopefuls in this age bracket, who have graduated from high school or passed equivalent General Educational Development tests, can get in the running by applying for an open competitive examination through the Michigan Department of Civil Service.

Deadline for the exam applications is 5 p. m., May 29.

Those who are accepted for the examination, tentatively scheduled for July 1, will be tested beyond the regular scope of general intelligence questions. They also will be scored on their knowledge of basic fishing and hunting regulations, wildlife identification, and other outdoor subjects.

From candidates who pass the exam, the Conservation Department hopes to fill at least six officer recruit positions. Officer recruits joining the Department will receive an annual starting salary of slightly more than $6,000.

Physical requirements for the officer recruit positions limit applicants to men weighing between 150 and 230 pounds, stripped, and standing not under 5' 9" or over 6' 4" in their stocking feet.

Claim Filed For Ironwood Sailor Lost On Morrell

CLEVELAND (AP) — Three more claims totaling $1,750,000 were filed Monday in U.S. District Court for damages in the deaths of crewmen aboard the Daniel Morrell, which sank Nov. 29 in a Lake Huron storm.

Attorney Howard Bernstein filed claims on behalf of the estates of the first, second and third mates. The actions ask $750,000 for the death of First Mate Phillip Kapets of Ironwood, Mich., $500,000 in the death of Second Mate Duncan MacLeod of Gloucester, Mass., and $500,000 in the death of Third Mate Ernie Marcotte of Pontiac, Mich.

Named defendants in the three actions were the Bethlehem Steel Corp. and its subsidiary, Cambria Steamship Co.

Conductors-Brakemen Threaten Rail Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new nationwide railroad strike threat by conductors and brakemen was reported today while Congress resumed hearings on President Johnson's efforts to head off a walkout by six railroad shop unions.

The independent Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen has advised railroad negotiators that some 20,000 of its members have authorized a strike for June 2, it was learned.

President Johnson could appoint an emergency board under the Railway Labor Act to stave off the new strike threat for 60 days, but the development seemed likely to complicate congressional action on the special law he seeks to prevent a strike by the shop unions.

Neither the union nor the railroads announced the new strike threat, but it was confirmed by government sources.

The conductors' and brakemen's dispute, like that of the shopcraft unions, involves 90 per cent of the nation's major railroads and a strike would virtually paralyze the industry.

Kennedy-Reagan Split On Dissent

NEW YORK (AP) — Face-to-face on split television screens around the nation Monday night, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Gov. Ronald Reagan divided too on issues essential to the resolution of the war in Vietnam.

The New York Democrat answered "yes" and the California Republican "no" to a question on whether the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong, should take part in any future peace talks.

They took opposite positions in a discussion on the effect of mass protests against the war.

Kennedy said people who question United States policy would be unpatriotic if they did not express their beliefs and added, "If all the protests and demonstrations ended today, the war would not end."

Reagan contended that the demonstrations prolong the war because they give encouragement to the enemy.

The two leaders, often mentioned as possible opponents in the 1972 presidential race, appeared on the CBS "Town Meeting of the World" in which they answered questions from 17 students in London.

Kennedy, talking from a New York studio in part of a hookup made via the Early Bird communications satellite, said it was unfortunate that a military regime should rule in a country like Greece where democracy began.

Reagan, in California, had a different point of view. He said, "I'm not sure that the forces that the military junta rose up to put down were completely dedicated to Greece's welfare."

New Court Rule Changes Juvenile Trial Practices

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court extended to juveniles Monday substantially the same constitutional protections given adults in criminal trials.

The landmark decision is certain to lead to broad reformation of juvenile court proceedings across the land.

The vote was 8 to 1, with three of the justices in the majority differing with the controlling opinion, given by Justice Abe Fortas, in some respects.

The dissenter was Justice Potter Stewart.

Using an Arizona juvenile case as a springboard, the court concluded that juveniles, like adults, are entitled to the following Bill of Rights safeguards:

1. Notice of the charges against them.
2. The right to have an attorney's assistance.
3. The right to confront and cross-examine complainants and other witnesses.
4. Protection against self-incrimination, including the privilege of remaining silent.
5. The right to a transcript of the proceedings.
6. The right to have the case reviewed in higher courts.

Fortas announced the historic decision to a courtroom packed with tourists and newly admitted attorneys.

Rights For All

"Neither the Bill of Rights nor the U.S. Constitution is for adults only," he declared dramatically from the bench.

Fortas' majority opinion, a little more than 55 pages long, traced juvenile court history and the largely informal procedures followed by juvenile court judges in dealing with youngsters accused of crimes.

He noted that the informality stems from the concept that the state was considered as a sort of substitute parent, with the judge careful to protect the child from the strict procedures followed when adults are charged with crime.

Although "the highest motives and most enlightened impulses led to a peculiar system for juveniles," Fortas said, "juvenile court history has again demonstrated that unbridled discretion, however benevolently motivated, is frequently a poor substitute for principle and procedure."

Fortas cited a report by President Johnson's commission on crime in the District of Columbia to show that the informal juvenile court procedure does not effectively reduce juvenile crime or rehabilitate offenders.

Kangaroo Court Unjustified

Besides this pragmatic argument, the majority, speaking through Fortas, stressed the constitutional rights of all Americans, juveniles or adults, and said: "Under our Constitution the condition of being a boy does not justify a kangaroo court."

In his dissenting opinion, Stewart said the decision imposes upon thousands of juvenile courts throughout the nation restrictions that the Constitution made applicable to criminal trials and added:

"I believe the court's decision is wholly unsound as a matter of constitutional law, and sadly unwise as a matter of judicial policy."

He said that during the past 70 years "many dedicated men and women have devoted their professional lives to the enlightened task of bringing us out of the dark world of Charles Dickens in meeting our responsibilities to the child in our society."

World's highest active volcano is Mt. Cotopaxi in Ecuador, with a height of 19,334 feet.

Dwarf Fruit Trees Fit Home And Farm

By JACQUELINE KORONA
EAST LANSING (AP) —

Dwarfs are making giant strides on fruit farms and urban lawns these days.

Not the gremlin types. These dwarfs are compact trees — up to 7 feet tall — that bear apples, pears, peaches or plums for commercial sale and novelty landscaping.

The pint-sized producers are becoming more and more popular among the state's fruit growers, says Robert Carlson, a Michigan State University professor of horticulture and secretary of the National Dwarf Fruit Tree Association.

"Nearly half the commercial orchards in the state are using dwarfing rootstock for their trees," Carlson said. "And about 70 per cent of the apple trees planted in Michigan in recent years are dwarfs."

Popularity of the small tree stems from its early production and increased efficiency of picking, pruning and spraying, Carlson said.

Fruit In Four Years

"The dwarf tree produces fruit from three to four years after planting," he said, "while the standard tree (15 to 30 feet tall) takes up to 10 years to come into full production."

"The fruit of a dwarf tree is larger for the first few years of full production," he added. "This is because the smaller-than-standard tree has fewer leaves and allows more sunlight to get at the fruit."

Carlson said that the ease of picking fruit from a smaller tree—no ladders needed—speeds up the picking process and helps a fruit grower by cutting labor costs.

For individuals who'd like a dwarf fruit tree in the yard, Carlson suggested getting a quick start, because the best time to plant the trees is before late May.

They cost about $1.50 to $3.50 each and require good loam, a bit of water, some pruning and spraying to keep off bugs.

Just dig a hole about 18 inches in diameter and 12 inches deep. Put in the tree, cover the roots with soil and tamp it down.

Need Two Varieties

Leave a sunken area at the base of the tree to hold water, sprinkle with fertilizer and put a wire mesh fence around the tree trunk to ward off hungry rabbits and mice.

Compact trees may even be grown in apartments or homes, although a city fruit tree grower must be sure the pot he uses for the tree is large enough to hold all the roots.

Carlson said that persons planting small apple trees on lawns or in homes should use two varieties of the fruit—like McIntosh and golden delicious. Dwarf pear and plum trees also require two types.

"The varieties allow cross pollination," he explained. "Without this you get flowers, but no fruit."

Fulbright Has Voter Problem

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Sen. J. W. Fulbright, of Arkansas, challenger of presidents and foreign policy for a quarter-century, faces his toughest political challenge as a dove in a state regarded as hawkish on the Vietnam war.

Two of Fulbright's most prominent fellow Democrats in Arkansas—former Govs. Orval E. Faubus and Sid McMath—think the senator is in trouble with the voters because of his attacks on administration war policy and so will be vulnerable in next year's primary.

Faubus and McMath, as well as Republicans bolstered by election gains last year, are seriously considering trying to unseat the maverick chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. But they all note that a lot can happen in a year. "Most people think Fulbright's strength will depend on what happens in Vietnam," said Faubus in an interview.

But, he added, "I think he's in greater difficulty than he's ever been before."

"He'd be defeated today because the majority of people in Arkansas don't support his position on Vietnam," said McMath, a ruggedly handsome lawyer and Marine Reserve major general who has spoken often on Vietnam since making a September trip to the war zone. McMath denies publicly he is considering taking on Fulbright but it is an open secret in political circles that he is.

A Look Backward And A Look Ahead

Polluted Erie, Still A Fishery

By LEE SMITS

For quite a spell of years Hy Dahlka and I have made an annual spring pilgrimage to Monroe to visit the Peterson brothers on the bank of the River Raisin. The Peterson Fish Company was founded by the grandfather of Fred and Howard. It would be hard to say just how far back in the Viking ancestry of the Peterson brothers the fishing business goes. Commercial fishing is a family way of life.

By the time a boy can row a skiff, pull twine, clean fish, he becomes a crew member and in spite of back-breaking toil, in spite of storm and disaster, nets swept away, fish prices collapsing, the born fisherman will be clumping around in boots and oilskins as he goes on beyond the four-ten mark. Fishermen, commercial or otherwise, are a long-lived breed.

Hy and I barged in on the Petersons on the afternoon of an exceptional day. Their lift had been one of the heaviest in recent years. Hy and I pawed over some of the more unusual specimens; a pickerel weighing close to 14 pounds was the biggest fish of the day, with a 12 pound carp second.

It has been some years since whitefish and herring have been important to the Lake Erie commercial fishermen. Meanwhile their stand-by is the pickerel, or walleye, or pickerel, also called yellow pickerel to distinguish it from the blue pickerel of Lake Erie. Lake Erie still produces a rich variety of species. The buffalo, somewhat resembling a carp, is classed as a rough fish although, taken from cold water, it is thoroughly edible. A few buffalo were swimming around in a tank. Bullheads and catfish were not numerous enough the day of our visit to meet the demands of epicurean fish-eaters.

Probably a survey would show pickerel tied with perch as first choice for the table among fish of the lower Great Lakes. Experts, by the way, do not approve of the file method of preparing fish. If you're scared of bones they say stick to canned salmon and sardines.

This spring Lake Erie fish have confounded comptometers, baffled biologists and repudiated researchers. Lake Erie is nationally notorious as an example of fargone pollution. The fish population of the lake is assumed to be in a bad way. This year the Ontario government prohibited the taking of pickerel from April 15 to May 15 from waters bordering Essex County, at the upper end of the lake. There has been agitation for international agreement to reduce pickerel size-limits in all Lake Erie waters.

Then, from the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, came a press release: "Two thirds of Ontario's commercial fish catch comes from Lake Erie, where 19,199,000 pounds of fish were caught in the first six months of 1966."

Totals for that period show that Lake Erie's yield was more than three times bigger than the catch from Ontario waters of Lake Superior!

Official reports show a substantial increase over 1965 for both Lake Erie and Lake St. Clair, with Lake St. Clair producing 592,000 pounds, the leading species being pickerel with carp second.

Lake St. Clair has been chosen for intensive research in the habits of pickerel. A thousand pickerel were taken from the Thames River on the Canadian side of Lake St. Clair during the 1966 spawning run. These fish were weighed and tagged. Returns from the operation have been all from the upper end of Lake St. Clair, and the southern part of Lake Huron.

The fish were mostly taken in commercial nets. Of those taken by hook and line, only one fish was landed by a resident of Ontario, a demonstration of the value of fishing as a tourist attraction.

Lake Erie and Lake St. Clair are ideal fish habitat, with shoal water, heavy plant growth. Early French settlers complained that the fish in these two lakes were too many and too big for their nets, causing heavy damage. Determined campaigns to wipe out pollution may bring back the plentiful old timers remember; a break for the fishing business and a break for all those who regard fishing as an excellent reason to get away from whatever business they happen to be in.

LIEUT. Mary K. Meehan of the U. S. Navy Nurse Corps reminds Michigan that this is Nurse Corps Week. The corps has grown from a small group called "The Sacred Twenty" to its present strength of over 2,000.

Chips And Splinters

Contributions To Chips Welcomed

Earl Logan of 23871 Manistee, Oak Park, Mich., who was born in Escanaba over 65 years ago, and feels "a little corner of it still belongs" to him, writes:

"For some time we had an unwelcome guest; he stayed so long he became a pest. He came too early, he stayed too late; in all our memory, he never kept a date.

"We all thought we knew him quite well and in the past got along with him just swell, but our guest in the past was just a splinter to the Old Man that visited us last winter."

Coldest Temperature

The coldest temperature in the history of our planet was logged in the year 1958 at Sovetskaya, a Russian base about 700 miles from the South Pole. A temperature of 127 degrees below zero was recorded.

Drunk In School; Student Jailed For 15 Weekends

BENTON HARBOR (AP) — A Benton Harbor High School student was sentenced Monday to spend his next 15 weekends in jail on charges of going to school drunk and attacking the principal.

Acting Municipal Judge Harry Laity convicted Ronald Johnson, 17, of being drunk and disorderly and sentenced him to 30 days in the Berrien County jail.

Johnson, a junior, was removed from class Friday and was taken to Principal Calvin Cleveland.

The police report said Johnson knocked Cleveland across a desk but Cleveland said there was only some "pushing and shoving."

Armed Cyclists Rob Gas Station

DETROIT (AP) — An armed motorcycle and a companion drove into a service station on Detroit's near West Side and robbed the attendant.

The attendant, David Dameron, 22, told police they stayed on their cycles while they demanded the money.

When are you going to get that Gas incinerator, Dad?

Today.

And there couldn't be a better time. Because right now you can get up to $100 off on a new Gas incinerator. And that means no more hauling, no more carrying garbage and trash, no more mess in the back yard. Because a Gas incinerator burns everything combustible—paper, rags, boxes and bones—completely. Without odor. And without smoking up the neighborhood. It costs just a few pennies a day to do the job right with Gas. And you can have a Gas incinerator with a low down payment. So why not stop in and see your dealer today. Or send us the coupon—before another annoying trash day comes.

Midget Sub To Probe Lake Michigan Depths

The University of Michigan will operate a small submarine in Lake Michigan next month, the first research submersible ever used in the Great Lakes.

The submarine's portholes and cameras will give man his first view of the deeper parts of the lake.

U-M's Institute of Science and Technology is leasing the craft from the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp. for the last two weeks in June.

The geological and biological investigations to be conducted by IST's Great Lakes Research Division share importance with the study of the submersible itself. The vessel is thought to be the most potentially valuable tool for ocean engineering and underwater research. If actual use confirms this belief, leasing for future U-M programs is likely.

To The Bottom

Star II, the vessel to be used, can carry two men to a depth of 1,200 feet. (Lake Michigan is only 920 feet at its deepest.) The craft is 17.7 feet long and weighs 4.7 tons. It carries a payload of 250 pounds of scientific equipment and cameras, including video-tape recording machinery which will permit bottom observations to be studied thoroughly on the surface. The craft can move in a 12-mile range at 4 1/2 knots.

Star II and its larger sister, Star III, recently completed a geological survey in the Caribbean off Nassau for that island's new Providence Development Corp.

Star II will be brought by truck from Groton, Conn., to Grand Haven, Mich., and placed aboard the Coast Guard cutter Woodbine. The Woodbine will be the support ship for the two week expedition.

On each of the 17 scheduled dives, Star II will carry an operator from Electric Boat and a University scientist. Depending on weather and other conditions, dives are planned off Grand Haven, Frankfort, and possibly Ludington, Mich., and Milwaukee and Manitowoc or Sturgeon Bay, Wis.

Scope Of Study

"Our primary objective is to determine the feasibility of using a vessel like Star II in further Great Lakes research," said Dr. David C. Chandler, director of the Great Lakes Research Division.

"To do that, of course, we must actually use the craft in solid research projects."

Dr. Chandler, an aquatic biologist, listed several biological and geological studies that will be undertaken on the dives:

- Deep rock formations will be examined to learn more about the nature of the lake basin. Scientists aboard Star II will try to observe the face of rock ledges and take samples at depths of 600 to 700 feet to help improve sampling techniques.

- Efforts will be made to learn the living and movement patterns of fish and of bottom-dwelling organisms on which fish feed.

- Another question concerns the depths of rooted plants. Some may reach 150 feet or more, beyond the range at which they can now be sampled effectively.

- Bottom sediment will be observed as fathometer readings are made. The findings will be correlated to determine a pattern for future readings. Scientists are anxious to learn more about how matter settles and collects near the lake bottom.

Dr. Chandler said the use of submersibles is a logical extension of research techniques in use on the Great Lakes. These begin with sampling from lowered instruments, and continue through the use of underwater cameras, underwater television, and scuba diving to about 200 feet for direct observation. Deeper observations require the submersible.

Coast Guard Helps

The Woodbine, a seagoing buoy tender, will transport the submersible and related equipment to diving stations around Lake Michigan, as well as lower Star II into the water and retrieve it. The cutter will also house the divers and scientists connected with the program.

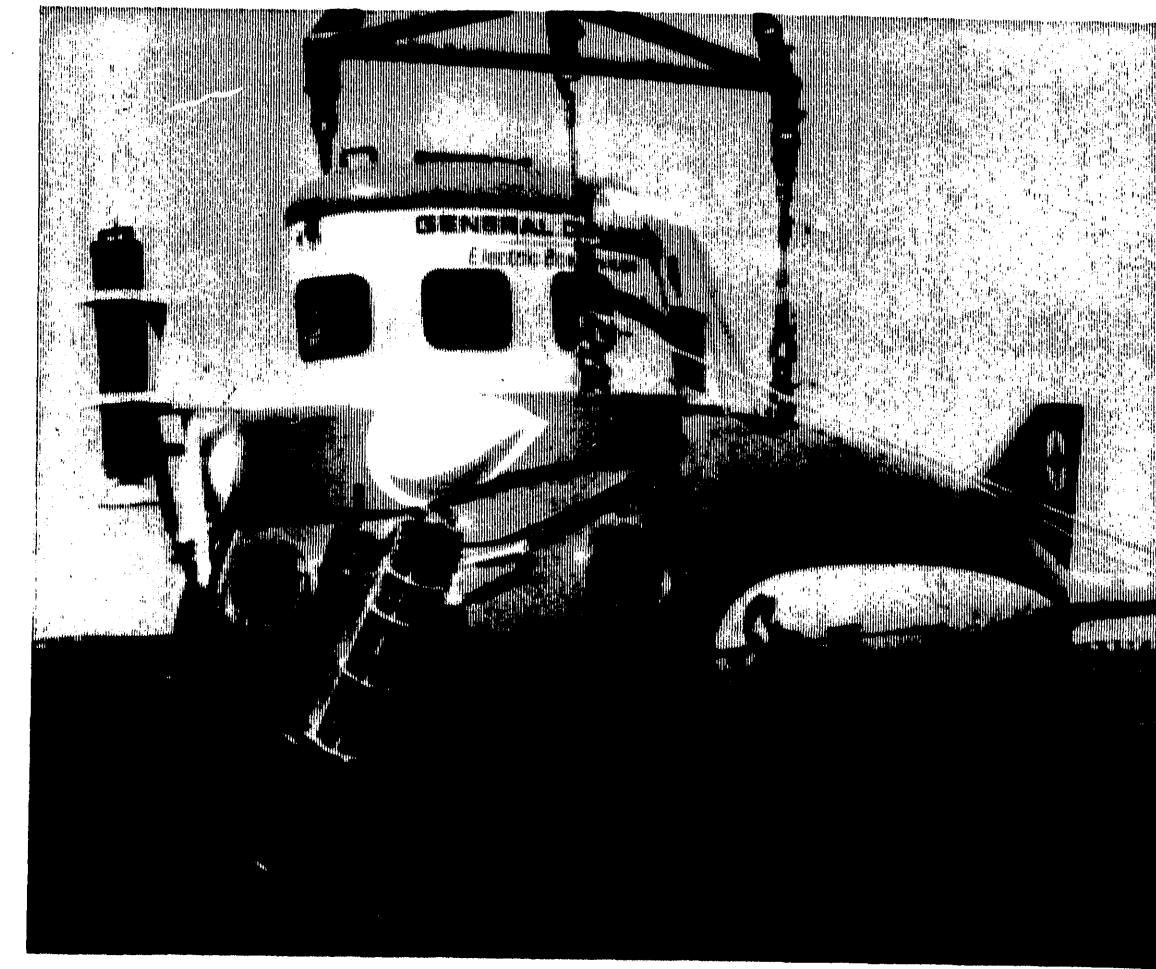

For the Ninth Coast Guard District, which encompasses the Great Lakes, this is one of 16 research projects in which its vessels and shore stations are participating this summer.

The projects — sponsored by other universities, private institutions, and government agencies — concentrate on exploring the Great Lakes and developing new research tools.

While the Coast Guard itself does only limited research for its own needs, its policy is to assist other scientists as much as possible by supplying needed ships and manpower.

Poets Pick Sault

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — Nearly 200 persons are expected to attend the National Federation of State Poetry Societies' national conference June 16 through 18 at Lake Superior State College. Speakers will include Dr. B.L. Fryxell, head of the humanities department at Michigan Tech, and Dr. Kenneth Heafield, president of the Michigan Poetry Society.

TWO-MAN SUBMARINE, Star II, will be used by the University of Michigan to explore the bottom of Lake Michigan next June. The craft can reach a depth of 1,200 feet, although Lake Michigan's deepest point is less than that. Dives will include locations off Sturgeon Bay. (AP Wirephoto)

Jury Convicts American Nazi

CHICAGO (AP) — George Lincoln Rockwell has been convicted on three charges stemming from a disturbance last summer in a Cook County official's office and faces penalties of up to one year in prison and $1,600 in fines.

A jury of five men and seven women deliberated 2 hours and 46 minutes Monday night before declaring Rockwell guilty of disorderly conduct, obstructing a peace officer and criminal trespass to property.

The charges were made after a disturbance in the office of former Sheriff Richard B. Ogilvie Aug. 29 where Rockwell demanded three times to be arrested.

"I am utterly shocked that such a thing can happen in this country," Rockwell said after the jury's verdict. "I'm too disturbed at various aspects of this trial to make further comment now."

Defense attorney Paul Knott said in his final argument that it was natural for Rockwell to have gone to Ogilvie's office after reading the ex-sheriff's statements that Rockwell wanted to "clear up" the matter before a planned march in suburban Cicero Sept. 10.

Rockwell, of Arlington, Va., had been on trial for six days.

Johnson Urges Senator Talk With Goldberg

later but had no idea when that will be.

Church said Rusk was a Far East expert in the State Department when it advised President Truman that Red China would not intervene in the Korean War even if U.S. troops fought their way to the Yalu River.

Against a backdrop of fear that this might be repeated in Vietnam, Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., said the administration is following a policy of restraint and he sees no cause for Communist China to be alarmed.

Must Take Stand

"I think it is important that we are in South Vietnam," he said. "There is some place at which we have to take a stand. We should not become so obsessed with what China might do that we forget why we're there."

Mansfield disagreed in part with Cooper's suggestion for a limitation on the bombing. He said if it failed to bring any response he feared American public opinion would demand even greater military measures against North Vietnam.

But Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., said he thought Cooper's proposal was worth a try. He said having 500,000 troops in Vietnam a few hundred miles from Red China's border was a great risk.

"If there were 500,000 Chinese troops 400 miles from our border, say in Mexico, we would have reacted most strongly," he said.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., a persistent critic of Johnson's war policies, said if the United States took the Vietnam issue to the U.N. Security Council and it was vetoed there by the Soviets, it could then be brought before the General Assembly.

News In Brief

By The Associated Press

PARIS — President Charles de Gaulle, in an obvious reference to the Vietnamese war, called today for an end "to the scandal of foreign intervention in Asia." This was a harsh repetition of his position that the U. S. must withdraw from Vietnam if there is to be peace there.

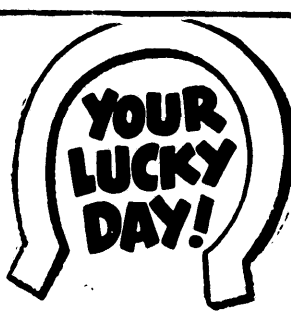

ATLANTA, Ga. — With Stokely Carmichael replaced by H. Rap Brown, indications are that Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee will shift back into its traditional undramatic role of political organizing.

SINGAPORE — Johnnie Ray, American singer, arrived here Monday night to a quiet welcome. He was mobbed at the airport on his last visit, about 15 years ago.

COLUMBIA, S. C. — The defense in the court-martial of Capt. Howard B. Levy, an Army doctor, is trying to show there are "some orders which a doctor would not obey and should not obey." The doctor is accused of failing to obey a direct order to train Green Beret medics.

CHICAGO — O. S. Wilson, who cleaned up and computerized a police department with worldwide reputation for corruption and ineptness, has announced his retirement. He will step down Aug. 1 from post as Chicago police superintendent.

CAIRO — President Abdel Nasser's government has told Washington it had gotten a promise from the president of Yemen to free two American Aid officials on bail. The two are accused of firing bazooka shells at an ammunition dump.

Timber Trail Board Presides At Meeting

The semi-annual meeting of Camp Timber Trail Association was held recently at K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base with representatives present from Marquette, Munising, Manistique, Ishpeming, Negaunee and K. I. Sawyer.

Mrs. R. Schendel, waterfront director, requested that swimming caps of various colors be worn this year when swimming.

Each color will designate a particular class of swimmer. The caps will be in stock at the Trading Post and will be sold for a small cost.

Mrs. Walter Miner, Manistique, camp registrar, reported that registrations have been received steadily in the last two weeks and that several sessions are nearly filled. She noted that reservations will be available to non-scouts this year and informed the board that several had registered already.

All counselors and other necessary help have been hired, reported Mrs. M. K. Reynolds, board president, who also mentioned that the camping season which opens July 2, should be a very successful one. Mrs. Virginia Bisberg is camp director.

The board plans to hold a brief meeting during the annual camp workbee on May 20 and set Thursday, Aug. 3 as the next regular meeting to be held at Timber Trail while camp is in session.

Insecticides Create Spring Peril For Kids

The Delta-Menominee District Health Department today urged parents to take extra caution in the use and storage of insecticides, pesticides and other poisonous materials used around the house in spring work.

As parents get involved with lawn work and house cleaning, they are more likely to forget and leave poisonous materials about where children can get to them, said Dr. Mary Cretens. In a high percentage of cases, insecticides and pesticides responsible for childhood poisoning accidents were not in their original containers when the victims found them.

Thirty five per cent of the cases poisonous materials were found on the floor of the home by the victims. Chemical fertilizers and cleaning agents are also responsible for the peak number of accidental poisonings noted each spring.

Thirty per cent of insecticide poisonings occur in the one-to-five age group, with the most dangerous time being from age one to two when the child is first able to get around the house and into unlocked storage areas. As in most other types of childhood accidents, boys are more often victims than girls.

Old-fashioned recipes involved with deep-fat frying, usually directed cooks to drain the fried food on "unglazed" paper. That direction meant that heavy brown paper with a dull surface could be used — the kind of paper used for wrapping packages and from which grocery bags are usually made. If you use a grocery bag, just split it and open out so the paper lies wide and flat.

Junior Class Play Tonight In Rapid River

The days of rehearsal are over for the Rapid River Junior Class play, Betty MacDonald's, "The Egg and I" under the direction of Mrs. Joanne Gillis. The hilarious comedy centers around a family who moves to a broken-down farm house to raise chickens. They are left with a shortage of electricity and water and find they have hillbillies for neighbors.

Except for an occasional visit from the "Lingery Lady" played by Peggy Hebert, the MacDonald's two teenage daughters, Joan, (Susan Proehl) and Anne, (Laurel Greenlund) have only empty hills to look at and a few local boys to compete for which leads to constant bickering.

The lead played by Beverly Kaukola, as Betty MacDonald, becomes quite upset when her husband's, (played by Tom Novak), exgirlfriend, Millicent Ames (Helen Wnuck) unexpectedly arrives with her outdoor girls and camps in the MacDonald's living room.

The comedy will be presented tonight at 8 at the Rapid River High School gymnasium. Tickets are still available from any member of the junior class or at the door.

Fashion Today Is Playacting: Gerneich

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — That master of minimum coverage, Rudi Gerneich, has bored new areas for fashionable nudity for next fall in his latest collection.

Tuesday the California designer, who originated toplessness, lopped away vertically at the midriff, cutting a swath from the neck to the navel and alarmingly beyond. The resulting exposure harmonized with thighs left bare by matching patterned stockings that did not quite reach that high.

Add to that the Japanese school boy and girl look, the gangster look, the kindergarten kid look, the hard-edged art look, the nun look, the court page look and you get the idea of the roles Gerneich thinks women might feel like acting out next fall.

"Fashion today is play acting," Gerneich explained before displaying his collection for Harmon Knitwear. "Women assume various attitudes with the clothes they wear."

Without elaborating on the attitudes of women who expose their navels, he assured buyers he would add up to five inches of skirt for those who thought his court page tunic lengths were more evil than medieval.

The costumes for childlessness consisted of Buster Brown hats, middy tunics with round collars and red bows, matching knee socks, short pants for the school boy look, and matching underpants for the school girl look; and a satchel strapped to the back.

For the even more retrogressive woman there was a kindergarten costume, a pinstriped smock over navy trousers with red sleeves and red legs. Gerneich's black haired model charged into the show-room puffing a cigar and wearing a wide-lapeled double-breasted, gray pinstriped gangster suit, a matching fedora-brimmed hat was cocked jauntily on one side of her head. A stiff collared shirt and a wide, wild black and white patterned tie completed her "attitude."

Bold stripes and blocks were set into vivid-hued tunics and stockings for the woman who has a yen for impersonalized art in her wardrobe. A modern nun's costume consisted of high black leggings over white tights-like long underwear — a white tunic with flowing wide sleeves, a black sleeveless tunic over that, and a white skull cap wrapped under the chin worn under a black hood. Without the black hood and the tunic, the model appeared to be ready for hospital surgery.

Pandemonium resulted, however, when the first model appeared in bared below the navel costume. The yellow and brown patterned, sleeveless, body-length costume was cinched at the middle with a black patent leather belt. Mid thigh-length stockings were of the same double-knot fabric. There were short-skirted versions with calf length socks, pants suit styles and even floor length hostess dresses where the bare thigh was not emphasized. But the navel was.

MANISTIQUE Severe Winters Affect Eagle Nesting Success

Bald eagles, at least the adults, winter in northern Michigan to a much greater extent than was previously thought, reports Sergej Postupalsky of Royal Oak, who is in charge of Michigan eagle and osprey study project.

The 1966 nesting survey shows that 44 of 91 eagle nests found, were productive and that 65 eaglets were raised. This was the eagles' most productive year since 1961. Breeding success near shores of the Great Lakes, however, remains at a low level.

Only one pair is left on Lake Michigan shore and 11 on the Lake Superior shore. Most of the successful nesting is inland, near small lakes, rivers and reservoirs. In southwestern Ontario, eight remaining pairs failed to raise a single young one.

Winters Affect Osprey nest success continued at a very low level throughout Michigan. Last year 52 occupied nests were located. From these the outcome of 50 was determined and showed only nine nests were productive and only 15 young osprey raised.

Data shows the osprey is declining at the rate of 15 per cent per year.

In the past four years data on the bald eagles shows a correlation between nest success and severity of preceding winters. In 1963, when a severe winter occurred, 29.5 per cent of pairs were successful and had 31 young fledged. The following year, after a mild winter, 42 per cent of pairs were successful and 49 young were fledged with an average 1965 winter, 36.8 per cent of pairs were successful and 42 fledged. The 1966 data on eagles following a very mild winter, showed 48.4 per cent success and 65 young fledged.

Pesticides The reduced nest success following a severe winter may be aggravated by pesticide residues. DDT, its metabolites and other chlorinated hydrocarbons are known to accumulate in fat tissue. During a period of stress, fat reserves are used, and the poisons enter the system, leading to death or to reduced reproduction. Additional residue may be picked up in severe winters when weather forces the birds southerly to more heavily contaminated agricultural areas.

About 550 pairs of bald eagles are known to nest in the U.S. outside of Alaska. Most reside in Florida, the western Great Lakes region, the mid-Atlantic seaboard and Maine. Sizeable populations still exist in Alaska and British Columbia. These have not been surveyed. Michigan has the second largest population, next to Florida. In Lower Michigan only about 30 pairs remain and in Upper Michigan 60-70 pairs. Most are in western Upper Michigan.

Hatch Reduced The eagles are dark brown with white heads and tails as adults. Plumage of the immature birds, usually to about four years, is dark brown all over, and may be spotted with white. Average wingspan is 80 inches and length 36 inches. Weight is about 13 pounds.

Fish form their staple diet, though carrion, birds and small mammals are sometimes taken. They are said to mate for life and occupy the same territory year after year. They lay one to three eggs which hatch after 35 days. The eaglets fly 10-13 weeks after hatching (when they are as big as their parents.) Two of three bald eagle families no longer raise young, Postupalsky reports.

The Michigan Bald Eagle and Osprey project is in its seventh year. For the past five years air transportation was used to assist in the survey. Travel by boat, canoe, car and afoot has been used.

In late April and early May surveys are made to see which nests are occupied. Another check is made in June or early July, when young are large enough to be seen from the air, and again in autumn.

Persons having information on bald eagles, particularly anything relating to nesting, are urged to contact Postupalsky. His address is 2926 W. 13 Mile Rd., Royal Oak, Michigan, 48073.

The birds are protected by federal law and must not be harmed.

Obituary DESTY DEROCHEY Funeral services were conducted at 9 a.m. Monday in St. Francis de Sales Church for Desty Deroche, 65, who died Friday. The Rev. Joseph Callari of Garden officiated. Pallbearers were Robert Hoar, Charles Gauthier, Louis Rogers, Leonard Stoor, Clare Steele and Alfred LaVallee. Burial was in Fairview Cemetery.

Singing Birds Although there are about 9,000 species of birds in the world, only about 3,000 species can sing. Of these, only about 225 have outstanding songs, and 21 1/2 ounces. The mother is the former Laura Lee Stahl.

State's Anglers Will Need Heavy Gear On Salmon

By BOB VOGES
LANSING (AP) — Looking to the future, Michigan fishermen had better start thinking of buying some heavy gear.

The chinook salmon are coming.

The recent plantings of coho salmon in streams leading to the Great Lakes already is called a success by the State Conservation Department.

Commercial fishermen from Indiana have been hauling in the cohos by the ton. Now the Indiana Conservation Department has acted to cut down the taking of fish planted as a sports species.

Fishermen are expected to start taking the cohos this summer.

During the past year, some $50,000 chinook salmon were planted in three northern streams. Two of the streams lead to Lake Michigan and one to Lake Superior.

Chinook Are Big
The chinook salmon are a big brother species of the coho. Some 1 million eggs were obtained from the West Coast and the Michigan department had a high ratio of success in raising the fish to three inches. About nine of 10 survived.

The chinook might come back to their streams of origin next year. But the major spawning runs are expected in 1939 and 1970 when the chinooks reach maturity.

A few were planted in Lake Ontario in the late 1800's and some survived to grow to 20 pounds or more. But very small fry were planted in the dead of winter and the planting didn't take.

Up To 50 Pounds
The chinook salmon can grow from 20 to 50 pounds at maturity and up to three feet long.

"Fishermen will have to use heavy gear to get them when they reach maturity," said Dave Borgeson of the Conservation Department's fish division.

"A 20 to 30 pound test line is needed, heavy rods and a big reel."

Fishermen trying for muskies from Lake St. Clair would be able to use the same equipment. But light lines and tackle won't be able to handle the chinook at maturity.

Out west, fishermen use herring for bait. Here an alewife or smelt would be recommended. Fishermen also could use an imitation minnow or a spoon as a lure.

Excellent Fighting Fish
"They are an excellent fighting fish," said Borgeson. "On the West Coast they are considered the king of the sporting fish."

It will take a knowing fisherman to tell the difference between a coho and a chinook, Borgeson reported.

Main difference is in the mouth. Cohos have white gums and the chinook salmon have dark gums. Another name for the species on the west coast is "Blackmouth."

Also, if the salmon weighs more than 20 pounds, you can figure it is a chinook.

As every housewife knows, the pink, firm flesh of salmon makes ideal eating.
